

VIRTUAL COMMUNICATION WITH
ALL HEALTH CARE
PROVIDERS

Virtual Integrated Practice Model

Health care practitioners in various disciplines who work in unaffiliated settings form a "virtual" team. Using a variety of communications and information technology (e-mail, voicemail, and Internet-based medical informatics systems), patient care is coordinated among team members working in different facilities.

Geriatric Interdisciplinary Teams in Practice Virtual Integrated Practice Model

Steven K. Rothschild, MD, Principal Investigator, Rush University

<http://www.rush.edu/professionals/vip/>

Supported by the John A. Hartford Foundation